

Burnley vs Brighton

Pre-Match Trading Analysis Report | Generated: 09/04/2026

Match Summary

Burnley, currently struggling in 19th place and fighting relegation, host mid-table Brighton at Turf Moor. The Clarets are in poor form, winless in their last five home matches, while Brighton arrive with confidence after a recent 2-1 victory over Liverpool, despite missing suspended captain Lewis Dunk.

Key Stats & Trends

- Burnley have failed to win any of their last five home matches (DLLLLD).
- Brighton sit 10th in the Premier League table with 43 points, having won 4 of their last 6 games.
- Burnley concede an average of 1.97 goals per game in the Premier League this season.
- Burnley's top scorer is Zian Flemming with 8 league goals.
- Brighton have won 48% of historical H2H matches where Both Teams to Score landed.

Top Trading Insights

Match Odds (1X2) - Brighton Win

High

Angle: Back Brighton at opening odds around 1.70

Reasoning: Burnley's atrocious home form and heavy concession rate make Brighton a strong favorite, even with Lewis Dunk out.

Total Goals - Over 2.5 Goals

Medium

Angle: Back Over 2.5 Goals

Reasoning: Burnley have conceded 61 goals in 31 matches, often allowing multiple goals, and both teams have key defensive absences.

Team Previews

Burnley Analysis

Key Player: Zian Flemming (Forward)

Leading goalscorer for Burnley this season, crucial for any counter-attacking threat.

Brighton Analysis

Key Player: Yankuba Minteh (Winger)

Provides direct attacking threat and pace, exploiting space left by struggling full-backs.

Strengths

- ✓ Desperation to secure points for survival
- ✓ Zian Flemming's goalscoring ability

Weaknesses

- ✗ Leaky defense conceding nearly 2 goals per game
- ✗ Poor home form with no wins in their last 5 at Turf Moor
- ✗ Midfield injuries including Josh Cullen

Strengths

- ✓ Possession-based attacking system under Fabian Hürzeler
- ✓ Pace on the wings with Yankuba Minteh and Kaoru Mitoma
- ✓ Recent form includes a strong win over Liverpool

Weaknesses

- ✗ Defensive absences with Lewis Dunk suspended and Veltman/Webster injured
- ✗ Inconsistent away form throughout the season

Historical & Disciplinary Data
